

TRINITY LOFT Single Family Residence

About the project:

Located in New York City's Financial district, this pre-war art deco office building was transformed into residences. One of the main challenges of this project was to make this 770 SQFT pied-a-terre into a larger than life floor plan. In order to achieve this, we created structural elements that visually tied the house end to end. By tactfully defining living areas in a loft-like space, we made every room feel larger than it actually is.
